

Author Index

- Albertini, J. A. See: Bochner, J. H.
 Atkinson, J. See: Protherough, R.
- Bechan, A. See: Larson, R. L. (1992a, 1992b).
 Bochner, J. H., Albertini, J. A., Samar, V. J., & Metz, D. E. (1992). External and diagnostic validity of the NTID writing test: An investigation using direct magnitude estimation and principal components analysis. 26(3), 299-314.
 Bryson, M. See: Joram, E.
- Durst, R. K. (1992). Promising research: An historical analysis of award-winning inquiry, 1970-1989. 26(1), 41-70.
- Earthman, E. A. (1992). Creating the virtual work: Readers' processes in understanding literary texts. 26(1), 351-384.
- Engelhard, G., Gordon, B., & Gabrielson, S. (1992). The influences of mode of discourse, experiential demand, and gender on the quality of student writing. 26(3), 315-336.
- Frank, L. A. (1992). Writing to be read: Young writers' ability to demonstrate audience awareness when evaluated by their readers. 26(3), 277-298.
- Freedman, S. W. (1992). Outside-in and inside-out: Peer response groups in two ninth-grade classes. 26(1), 71-107.
- Gabrielson, S. See: Engelhard, G.
 Gordon, B. See: Engelhard, G.
 Greene, K. See: Rubin, D. L.
- Hansson, G. (1992). Readers responding—and then? 26(2), 135-148.
- Jenson, R. M. (1992). Can growth in writing be accelerated? An assessment of regular and accelerated college composition courses. 26(2), 167-210.
- Joram, E., Woodruff, E., Bryson, M., & Lindsay, P. H. (1992). The effects of revising with a word processor on written composition. 26(2), 167-193.
- Larson, R. L., & Bechan, A. (1992a). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. 26(2), 211-234.
 Larson, R. L., & Bechan, A. (1992b). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. 26(4), 446-465.
 Lindsay, P. H. See: Joram, E.
- McKendy, T. (1992). Locally developed writing tests and the validity of holistic scoring. 26(2), 149-166.
- Metz, D. E. See: Bochner, J. H.
 Murphy, S. See: Owston, R. D.
- Owston, R. D., Murphy, S., and Wideman, H. H. (1992). The effects of word processing on students' writing quality and revision strategies. 26(3), 249-276.
- Protherough, R. & Atkinson, J. (1992). How English teachers see English teaching. 26(4), 385-407.
- Purves, A. C. (1992). Reflections on research and assessment in written composition. 26(1), 108-122.
- Rubin, D. L., & Green, K. (1992). Gender-typical style in written language. 26(1), 7-40.
- Samar, V. J. See: Bochner, J. H.
 Scharer, P. L. (1992). Teachers in transition: An exploration of changes in teachers and classrooms during implementation of literature-based reading instruction. 26(4), 408-445.
- Wideman, H. H. See: Owston, R. D.
 Woodruff, E. See: Joram, E.

Subject Index

Bibliographies

- Larson, R. L. & Bechan, A. (1992a). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. 26(2), 211-234.
 Larson, R. L. & Bechan, A. (1992b). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. 26(4), 446-465.

Curriculum

- Scharer, P. L. (1992). Teachers in transition: An exploration of changes in teachers and classrooms during implementations of literature-based reading instruction. 26(4), 408-445.

Language

- Freedman, S. W. (1992). Outside-in and inside-out: Peer response groups in two ninth-grade classes. 26(1), 71-107.

Literature

- Earthman, E. A. (1992). Creating the virtual work: Readers' processes in understanding literary texts. 26(4), 351-384.
 Hansson, G. (1992). Readers responding—and then? 26(2), 135-148.

Researcher Education

- Durst, R. K. (1992). Promising research: An historical analysis of award-winning inquiry, 1970-1989. 26(1), 41-70.

Teacher Education

- Protherough, R. & Atkinson, J. (1992). How English teachers see English teaching. 26(4), 385-407.

Writing

- Bochner, J. H., Albertini, J. A., Samar, V. J., & Metz, D. E. (1992). External and diagnostic validity of the NTID writing test: An investigation using direct magnitude estimation and principal components analysis. 26(3), 299-314.
 Engelhard, G., Gordon, B., & Gabrielson, S. (1992). The influences of mode of discourse, experiential demand, and gender on the quality of student writing. 26(3), 315-336.
 Frank, L. A. (1992). Writing to be read: Young writers' ability to demonstrate audience awareness when evaluated by their readers. 26(3), 277-298.
 Jenson, R. M. (1992). Can growth in writing be accelerated? An assessment of regular and accelerated college composition courses. 26(2), 194-210.
 Joram, E., Woodruff, E., Bryson, M. & Linday, P. H. (1992). The effects of revising with a word processor on written composition. 26(2), 167-193.
 McKendy, T. (1992). Locally developed writing tests and the validity of holistic scoring. 26(2), 149-166.
 Owston, R. D., Murphy, S., & Widemanm, H. H. (1992). The effects of word processing on students' writing quality and revision strategies. 26(3), 249-276.
 Purves, A. C. (1992). Reflections on research and assessment in written composition. 26(1), 108-122.
 Rubin, D. L. & Greene, K. (1992). Gender-typical style in written language. 26(1), 7-140.

